Renegade

CORDYLINE AUSTRALIS X C. BANKSII

Cordyline Renegade ('Tana') is a striking, unique Cordyline set apart from other Cordyline selections by its dark, purple-black foliage. The broad leaves are accented with a glossy lacquered finish. Fragrant pale white flowers on delicate stems in summer months are an added bonus. Renegade is a sturdy grower that is not prone to flopping during shipping and handling. Its tight but eventually clumping habit gives it a solid base and more showy appearance. No growth regulators or pinching are necessary. The architectural appeal of the foliage and tight clumping habit make Renegade the perfect choice for the modern garden, containers for decks and patios, or for commercial landscape work.
