DAHLIA HYBRIDA

A real showstopper when in bloom, contrasting bicolor daisy-like flowers atop dark foliage, this is half-hardy hybrid dahlia produces showy pink and white, single-form flowers and burgundy-black leaves with bluntly toothed edges. Each flower petal is pink, but develops white bands on the out edges and a basal blush of rusty dark pink. Plants are well-branched, forming a compact, upright oval silhouette that does not require staking. Each flower displays eight petals surrounding a small rusty mahogany center edged with golden stamens.
