

KiwiFlora our genetics · your growth

Red Shadow

ASTELIA

From a distance, this selection of New Zealand native Astelia might trick you into thinking it is a NZ flax, due to its stiff, upright habit. But on closer inspection, the rich, brownish-red leaves of Astelia 'Red Shadow' presents with a soft, furry tomentum, typical of Astelia foliage. 'Red Shadow' forms a spectacular, dense, tuft, perfect to inject visual drama and textural contrast into the landscape, either in garden borders or containers. 'Red Shadow' also lends itself well to contemporary and minimalist landscapes, especially when teamed with grasses or totally contrasting rounded foliage. Plant in full sun, to bring out the best colour, and friable, well-drained soil, that is not too rich. Evergreen.

SIZE	H 1.0m x W 1.0m
BLOOM TIME	Insignificant (foliage selection)
FOLIAGE	Reddish-bronze, strap-like, upright
HABIT	Clump forming
PROPAGATION METHODS	Tissue Culture / Division
HARDINESS	Cold Tolerant
USDA HARDINESS ZONES	8 to 10
LICENCE	Licence available worldwide
PROTECTION STATUS	-